This annual corporate governance statement for Chr. Hansen Holding A/S forms part of Management's Review in the 2013/14 Annual Report and concerns the accounting period from 1 September 2013 to 31 August 2014. The statement includes a description of the Company's management structure, a review of the Company's position on the Danish Recommendations on Corporate Governance as adopted by NASDAQ OMX Copenhagen in its Rules for Issuers of Shares, and the main elements of the Chr. Hansen Group's internal control and risk management systems in relation to the Group's financial reporting.

MANAGEMENT STRUCTURE

Board of Directors

The Board of Directors is responsible for the overall management of the Company. In accordance with current practice in Denmark, responsibilities are distributed between the Board of Directors and the Executive Board, and the two bodies are independent. The Executive Board is in charge of day-to-day management, while the Board of Directors supervises the work of the Executive Board and is responsible for general strategic management. The Board of Directors has nine members, of whom six are elected by shareholders and three by employees. Currently, all six board members elected by shareholders, including the Chairman, are independent. All shareholder-elected members of the Board of Directors stand for election each year. The employee-elected members stand for election every fourth year in accordance with current legislation with the current term ending in 2017. The age limit is 70. The Board of Directors meets six to eight times a year and on an ad-hoc basis if necessary. In 2013/14, the Board of Directors met on eight occasions. The shareholder-elected members of Chr. Hansen's Board of Directors have undertaken to purchase, no later than 12 months after their appointment, shares corresponding to at least one year's fee for an ordinary board member, and to maintain ownership of these shares during the entire period of their board membership. See note 2.3 to the Consolidated Financial Statements for information on board members' current shareholdings.

The Chairman of the Board of Directors is responsible for conducting an annual review of the Board of Directors' performance, addressing the effectiveness of the Board, the processes supporting its work, the Board's performance, individual board members' contributions and the Chairman's performance.

In 2013/14, the evaluation was conducted by the individual directors and executives anonymously completing a comprehensive online questionnaire which was then summarized by an external consultant. It is the intention that the Board evaluation will be externally facilitated every second year.

The results of the assessment process were presented to the Board of Directors in September 2014, by the external consultant. The report describes a number of areas in which the Board is both effective and very well-functioning and gives an overall impression of a high-performing Board of Directors. Almost all areas for improvement which were identified in last year's assessment have been complied with. This year, too, the assessment identified some minor areas in which improvements will be considered.

The Chairman of the Board will hold individual meetings with each Director to review their performance.

Similar evaluations of their effectiveness have been undertaken by the Audit Committee, the Nomination Committee and the Remuneration Committee.

Main elements of the Group's internal control and risk management in connection with its financial reporting

The purpose of Chr. Hansen's internal control and risk management system in relation to the financial reporting process is to ensure that external financial statements are presented in accordance with IFRS as adopted by the EU and additional Danish disclosure requirements for annual reports of listed companies, and to ensure that the financial statements give a true and fair view free from material misstatement.

Chr. Hansen's internal control and risk management system ensures that material errors or inconsistencies in the financial statements are identified and corrected as far as possible. The internal control and risk management system comprises the following areas:

- Control environment
- Risk assessment
- Control activities
- Information and communication
- Monitoring

Control environment

The Board of Directors has set up an Audit Committee to assist the Board of Directors in supervising the financial reporting process and the effectiveness of the Company's internal control and risk management system.

The Executive Board is responsible for maintaining effective controls and an effective risk management system. The Executive Board has implemented the controls necessary to address the risks identified in relation to financial reporting. The composition of the Board of Directors, the Audit Committee and the Executive Board ensures the relevant competencies with respect to internal control and risk management in relation to the financial reporting process. Powers and responsibilities are defined in the Board of Directors' rules of procedure for the Executive Board. The Board of Directors approves policies for Business Integrity, Quality & Product Safety, Knowledge, People & Organization, Finance & IT and Communication, as well as Chr. Hansen's mission, vision and corporate values. The Executive Board approves all other policies and regularly briefs the Board of Directors on such policies. The relevant functions at Chr. Hansen issue guidelines and monitor the application of all policies and procedures. Chr. Hansen's accounting policies are set out in the Chr. Hansen financial reporting manual, which is available to all employees.

Risk assessment

The Board of Directors and the Executive Board regularly assess the risks that Chr. Hansen is exposed to, including risks related to financial reporting. The Audit Committee reviews certain high-risk areas at least once a year, including the following:

- Significant accounting estimates
- Material changes to the accounting policies
- Fraud risk assessment

At least once a year, the Executive Board and the Audit Committee consider whether the current internal control environment is effective in relation to the risks identified in the financial reporting process.

Control activities

Group Accounting's competencies are reviewed on an ongoing basis in order to ensure an appropriate and satisfactory control environment. All regional finance and IT functions report directly or indirectly to central functions. Central controlling functions are responsible for controlling financial reporting.

Chr. Hansen has introduced standards for internal control relating to financial reporting. These standards are intended to ensure a certain minimum level of internal control, thus making the control environment effective. The internal control standards are focused on separating functions and on detective and preventive controls.

Group Accounting exercises ongoing controls in order to ensure an appropriate control environment. The Audit Committee has assessed the need for an internal audit function and decided not to establish one at present, as the current internal control and risk management system and processes are deemed sufficient.

Information and communication

Chr. Hansen's financial reporting manual and other reporting instructions, including accounting instructions and policies on credit-granting and capital expenditure, are updated on a regular basis. Updates are communicated to the global finance organization through monthly letters, seminars and webcasts. All manuals and instructions are also available on the Chr. Hansen intranet, where they can be accessed by all employees.

Chr. Hansen has a global IT set-up that contains key data in relation to financial reporting and ensures a high degree of uniformity and transparency in systems and figures. Decisions and analyses are based on up-to-date and relevant data. The IT systems are secured with general IT controls, and the ERP systems contain automated application controls that are reviewed on an ongoing basis.

Monitoring

Financial reporting is controlled on an ongoing basis, and procedures have been established to check and test such reporting. Procedures have also been set up to ensure that any errors are communicated to and corrected by the reporting companies. Internal controls are subject to ongoing reviews in connection with the regular control inspections at subsidiaries. Conclusions from these reviews are submitted to the Executive Board, the Audit Committee and the external auditors. Chr. Hansen's internal financial reporting ensures an effective process for monitoring the Company's financial results, making it possible to identify and correct any errors or omissions. The monthly financial reporting from the respective companies is analyzed and monitored by Group Accounting in order to identify any significant weaknesses in internal controls, failures to comply with procedures and the financial reporting manual, etc. The Audit Committee follows up on a regular basis to ensure that any significant weaknesses in internal controls are eliminated, that any errors or omissions in the financial statements identified and reported by the auditors are corrected, and that controls or procedures are implemented to prevent such errors or omissions.
